Brach Eichler Named 2021 Healthcare Litigation Department of the Year by New Jersey Law Journal

August 5, 2021 – Brach Eichler LLC, a full-service law firm based in Roseland, NJ, is pleased to announce that the firm's healthcare litigation practice has been named the 2021 Litigation Department of the Year by the New Jersey Law Journal.

Brach Eichler's healthcare litigation practice earned this prestigious recognition as a result of combining its demonstrated litigation and healthcare regulatory experience to achieve successful outcomes for clients in their most critical disputes. This was the first year the firm entered a submission into the contest.

Healthcare Member, and Litigation Co-Chair, Keith Roberts said, "We are grateful and honored to be recognized by the most prestigious legal news source in the State of New Jersey. We are proud to be leaders and attribute this win to our experienced team of healthcare litigation Counsel, Associates, and professional staff. This award is a testament to their skill and dedication." Roberts continues, "We will continue to pursue aggressive legal strategies in the healthcare industry on behalf of our clients."

Brach Eichler pioneered the discipline of health law in New Jersey and has developed – and continues to cultivate – its reputation as a leader in health law representation. Brach Eichler has helped clients with the challenges of adapting to the changing environment in healthcare, particularly in the area of complex reimbursements disputes, insurance fraud, disciplinary proceedings, and regulatory changes affecting their practices and medical licenses. Brach Eichler has also litigated and secured for clients millions of dollars of denied claims arising from medically necessary treatment.

In addition, as a result of Brach Eichler's groundbreaking work helping physicians navigate the opioid crisis, physicians are able to find solutions meeting the new standard of care and avoid substantial licensure penalties. Brach Eichler has taken the lead in assisting physicians to adapt to the ever-changing standard-of-care regulations.

"This recognition honors the very best litigators in the business and Brach Eichler's ability to handle the most challenging healthcare cases leading to impactful court decisions over the past year," Managing Member and Healthcare Law Chair John D. Fanburg said. "Our innovative strategies have generated significant successes for our clients. This fuels our work, and we will continue to advocate tirelessly for their interests."

Presented by American Law Media and the New Jersey Law Journal, the New Jersey legal awards honors law firms that have demonstrated repeated success in cutting-edge work, with a solid track record of client wins. The honorees will be recognized at this year's gala, scheduled for September, as well as in special magazines to be published at that time.
