June 12, 2020 — Brach Eichler LLC, a full-service law firm based in Roseland, NJ, today announced that Edward P. Capozzi, Chair of the Personal Injury Practice, was installed as the 59th President of the New Jersey Association for Justice (NJAJ) for the 2020-2021 term. Due to the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic, Capozzi was honored virtually on June 11.

"I am deeply honored to assume the role of President of the NJAJ, an organization I have long been dedicated to and been a part of," said Capozzi. "During my tenure, I will do my best to advance the mission of justice for all while upholding NJAJ's commitment to advocacy and education for New Jersey's trial lawyers."

One of New Jersey's most renowned and dynamic personal injury attorneys, Capozzi exclusively handles auto, trucking, NJ Transit, products liability, and other catastrophic personal injury cases. He has successfully represented seriously injured clients in New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan, West Virginia, Vermont, Florida, Massachusetts, Virginia, and Delaware. Capozzi is certified by the Supreme Court of New Jersey as a civil trial attorney.

Known for his fierce cross-examination of medical witnesses and artistic presentations of his cases, Capozzi lectures across the country on trial techniques and the concept of proximate cause. He is the author of "The Domino Theory," a Trial Guides publication in which he explains proximate cause and shows other attorneys how to successfully present any case to a jury.

Capozzi is an active participant, advocate, and educator in the field of law. He is a Leaders Forum member of the American Association for Justice (AAJ), an advocate member of the American Board of Trial Advocates (ABOTA), a member of the Association of Plaintiff's Interstate Trucking America (APITLA), a lifetime member of the Multi Million Dollar Advocates Forum and a fellow of the Melvin Belli Society, an organization dedicated to the international exchange of ideas among lawyers through meetings and education.
