[Podcast] Current Trends with Non-Compete Agreements with Rose Suriano, Esq.

4/2/2024

In this episode of the "Brach Eichler Talks" Podcast, Rose Suriano, a seasoned litigator at Brach Eichler with over three decades of experience, delves into the evolving landscape of non-compete agreements in the business world. Rose, celebrated for her acumen in business litigation and her significant impact on New Jersey's legal scene, explores the complexities of non-compete clauses in various industries. Drawing from her extensive experience in handling contentious contract and business disputes, Rose offers valuable insights into the challenges and nuances of enforcing these agreements. She shares her perspectives on recent legal developments, strategic considerations for businesses, and the delicate balance between protecting business interests and preserving employee mobility. With a blend of legal expertise and practical wisdom, Rose provides a comprehensive overview of the current state and future trends in non-compete agreements.

Topics include:

- 1:39 – What's happening in the legal world with respect to non-compete agreements?
- 3:27 – What would you suggest to somebody who is currently working at a company and signed a non-compete agreement?
- 4:59 – Is there anything that businesses should be aware of or any way they should prepare for impending changes?

Click here for details about Rose Suriano’s professional background and achievements.

*This is an informational podcast only and not intended to create an attorney-client relationship with the listeners.