[Podcast] Stop Work Orders: What Contractors and Owners Need to Know w/Jay Sabin & Ashley L. Matias

Listen and subscribe now on YouTube, Apple Podcasts, iHeart Radio, Spotify, and Amazon Music.

6/19/2025

In this episode of Brach Eichler Talks, attorneys Jay Sabin and Ashley L. Matias discuss the increasing use of Stop Work Orders by the New Jersey Department of Labor and what that means for contractors and business owners. The conversation covers how these orders are issued, the role of wage and hour compliance, and the legal implications of worker misclassification under the ABC test.

With Stop Work Orders now being issued roughly every 10 days—most frequently to contractors—this episode offers a closer look at the enforcement trends and the potential operational and financial impact on businesses across the state.

 Tune in for an in-depth discussion of this growing enforcement tool and how it's reshaping business practices in New Jersey.

For more information or assistance, please contact:

– Jay Sabin, Esq., Member, Labor & Employment Practice, at jsabin@bracheichler.com, 917-596-8987, or https://www.staging.bracheichler.com/professionals/jay-sabin/

– Ashley L. Matias, Esq., Associate, Labor & Employment Practice, at amatias@bracheichler.com, 973-364-8330, or https://www.staging.bracheichler.com/professionals/ashley-l-matias/

To read the full New Jersey Law Journal article, visit https://www.law.com/njlawjournal/2025/03/17/njdols-authority-to-issue-stop-work-orders/

*This is intended to provide general information, not legal advice. Please contact the authors if you need specific legal advice.

Authors

The following attorneys contributed to this insight.

Jay Sabin

Member
Labor and Employment, Cannabis Industry

917.596.8987 · 973.618.5907 Fax

jsabin@bracheichler.com

Ashley L. Matias

Associate
Labor and Employment

973-364-8330 · 973-618-5997 Fax

amatias@bracheichler.com